

SUMMARY

This episode deals with the define architecture; starting from a simple definition to a more holistic definition; The lecture also clarifies the difference between architecture and engineering; it clarifies how the act of designing is different from that of designing a commodity like a car. The lectures explains the about the profession of architecture and what roles an architect plays in creation of a building. Also the course of development of the profession in history is discussed in this lecture.