

Objectives

- Understanding the various types of glasses, their evolution , properties and Applications
- Studying toughened, laminated and wired glass which are relevant to each other both in applications as well as their development
- The understanding of glass blocks or bricks and their properties as well as wide spread applications domestically
- Studying the evolution of Structural glass from the development of above types of glass