

Summary

This lecture explained about the method of designing a continuous beam using moment coefficients given in IS 456:2000 and aimed to design the size of beam and reinforcement required for the beam by doing worked example.