

Summary

In this lecture, a worked example have been carried out to design two way rectangular slab simply supported on all the four sides which do not have any adequate provision to resist torsion at corners using design guidelines as per IS 456:2000 and the reinforcement detailing have been discussed as per SP34.