

Summary

This lecture helps the students to understand vertical distribution systems that are used to move people from one floor to other floors. The various design principles for each system is explained in detail.