

Glossary

Nanotechnology is the use of very small pieces of material by themselves or their manipulation to create new large scale materials.

Nano- Particles: it is defined as a particle with atleast one dimension less than 200nm. It is made of semiconducting material.

Thermo responsive Materials: it is the ability of a material to change properties in response to changes in temperature.