

Summary

This lecture is about air conditioning systems for small buildings and the different types of systems available like Window type, Evaporative cooler, packaged terminal units and Split system are discussed. The working principle of these type of air conditioners are also explained in detail with its applications.