

Summary

This session would lend you an overall insight on what structure is and what architecture is. Contrary to popular belief that architecture is the next step in civilization of structure, a cross cultural combination of structure and architecture is the next step in the evolution of architecture and structure.

In addition to that, we shall also learn about the trebeated structures (column beam technology), monolithic structures, Neolithic structures, their advantages and disadvantages.

In essence this is just a soup serving episode for a meal in structure and architecture.