

GLOSSARY

Via duct:

A long, high bridge that carries a road or railroad over something (such as a valley) usually consisting of a series of short spans supported on arches, piers, or columns.