

SUMMARY

This episode deals with the nature of migration from rural to urban and the difference in the environments of the same. It lends information on various terminologies in urban environment like morphology, growth patterns etc. It details out the various elements of urban design including buildings, public spaces, street, transportation and landscape. Urban design definition is prescribed followed by various problems associated with urban growth. The facets of urbanization are included corresponding to the growth of cities after industrialization.