

SUMMARY

- This presentation explains what a project is, what management is and why project management is for an architect.
- What are the key areas of management and how it helps construction?
- Also we will see about the types of projects (mainly civil) their characteristics the various phases of project, reasons for a project success and failure.
- What is decision making, how to make a decision and its importance will be dealt.