

Objectives

Various physical tests can be administered to a person for his physical and metabolic endurance and with the help of instruments we can find whether that person has got that ability to a good athlete or not.