

SUMMARY

From this chapter we can summarize that, if an individual wants to specialize professional preparation then he has to proceed for master level of professional level. Such specializations are Sports Biomechanics, Physiology of exercise, Sports management etc. and universities offer M. Phil & PhD Degrees at the level of post graduate study. It should include various laboratory experiences and teaching skills and techniques especially to use laboratory equipments. The library experience is also an added feature, which provides the learning of professional use of library. The understanding of library systems and techniques helps the professionals to use the library with economy of time.