

SUMMARY:

Camping is an outdoor recreational activity, involving staying outdoors, away from the comforts of day to day life. Campers want to enjoy an enriching, refreshing and relaxing experience away from the stress and tensions of day to day life. It becomes the responsibility of the camp leaders to provide them with such an experience. Though it is important that they are detached from their life back home there should be no or very limited usage of the modern day gadgets and devices especially there should be a strict “No Phones” policy in place. Special focus should be placed so as to ensure the safety of the campers and all such factors that may be hazardous should be removed. Age and group appropriate themes need to be devised so as to achieve the aim of camping both through the perspective of the camper as well as camping.
