

SUMMARY:

Good leadership is essential for the success of any organization, though we say that leaders are born yet there are certain qualifications that are to be attained and qualities that are required so as to become a recreational leader. They have to be properly trained so as to propagate the recreational programs properly and avoid the spreading of misconceptions. As mentioned a number of times that leadership is essential for the followers to be guided and not lose hope even under dire circumstances. They should be able to take quick decisions and after due consideration of all the factors that may or may not assist in the leading of the group.
