

Objectives

On completion of this chapter, one should be able to:

- understand the concept of endurance
- explain the types of endurance
- described the factors determining endurance
- show the effective management endurance training programme.