

Objectives

In Statistical analysis, generally we seek to develop brief summary figures, which describe a set of data adequately. Measures of central tendency are most widely used summary figures in Statistics. This unit considers these measures along with illustrations. After reading this unit, we will be able to:

- define measures of central tendency
- understand the importance of measures of central tendency
- calculate mean, median and mode for grouped and ungrouped data