

OBJECTIVE

- To provide general introduction of unit operations in food processing
- To acquaint students about principles of different unit operations in food processing.
- To acquaint students about various preservation techniques in food processing.
- To acquaint students about applications of unit operations in food processing.
- To acquaint students about the material handling for processed foods.