References

- Ilyas S M and Goyal R K. (2002). Advances in pulse processing. In: Pulses (Ed. Kolar J S) PAU, Ludhiana.
- Jarnail Singh. (2003). INDIA (1). In Processing and Utilization of Legumes Report of the APO Seminar on Processing and Utilization of Legume. Japan, 9–14 October 2000.ISBN: 92-833-7012-0.
- Kurien P P. (1979). Pulse Milling. Indian Institute of Technology, Madras, India : Chemical Engineering Education Development Centre.
- Kurien P P. (1980). Grain legume milling technology. Proceedings: InternationalmWorkshop on Pigeonpea, Vol I, Patancheru, A.P. 502 324. ICRISAT.
- Kurien P P; Desikachar H S R; Parpia H A B. (1972). Processing and utilization of grain legumes in India. Proceedings : Symposium on Food Legumes. Tokyo, Japan.
- Lal R R. (1999). Present status of pulse processing technology in India. CRIDA, Hyderabad, October 4 8.
- Lal, R.R. and Verma Prasoon (2007) Post Harvest Management of Pulses, Indian Institute of Pulses Research, Kanpur.
- Narsimha H V. (1984). Studies on cookability of pulses and factors affecting their cooking quality with special reference to tur (Cajanus cajan) Ph.D. Thesis, Mysore, India.
- Nawab Ali. (2003). India (2). In Processing and Utilization of Legumes Report of the APO Seminar on Processing and Utilization of Legume. Japan, 9–14 October 2000.ISBN: 92-833-7012-0.
- Singh B P N and Narain M. (1993). Recent trends in milling of pulses problems and prospects.