

Objectives

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- Relate real life situations to a particular distribution and find different constants of the distribution
- To find mean and variance of a particular distribution
- To compute probabilities of different situations