Assignment

1. Write a short note on different data entering methods in R program

2. By considering a data write an R code to enter the data using scan function, hence compute mean, median and variance. Also construct a suitable graph for that data.

3. Check out the features of the latest version of the R software.

4. Try installing the new version of R on your PC.