

Summary

In this lecture we discussed how to construct control charts for attributes in different situations and how to interpret them. We discussed application of binomial and Poisson distribution in setting the control limits. We discussed the difference between the charts for Nonconforming units and nonconformities. We also discussed the use of attribute control charts over variable control charts.